The organisers, British Chess, cannot take responsibility for looking after the children outside the tournament hall. This is down to the parents. British Chess also cannot take responsibility for any theft or accident during the event. Parents must make their own decision as to whether their child is mature enough to behave responsibly and stay within the designated areas. We will not be held liable if a child intentionally leaves the premises.

Photos of the children may be taken by the organisers in the playing hall. These may be published on chess websites or in chess related articles. If you are not happy for photos of your child to be used then please email us before the start of the event.

Your email address may be used to send chess related information if you do not inform us otherwise.
